STEVE ADAMS POINTS THE WAY.

He Locates the Grave of a Murdered Mine Employee.

Teluride, Cal., Aug. 9.—What is said to be the skeleton of W. J. Barney, the timber man employed on the Smuggler-Union mine, who mysteriously disappeared in June, 1901, was exhumed Wednesday near the Alta mill, twelve miles from town, by General Bulkeley Wells, manager of the Smuggler-Union Mining company. According to Mr. Wells' account, the body was found in an improvised grave and its location was pointed out by Steve Adams, now in jail in Idaho, awaiting a second trial on the charge of murder, when he was here in June, 1906, in the custody of Wells.

After Adams made the alleged confession, which is afterwards repudiated, in which he is supposed to have acknowledged being the assassin of Arthur Collins, formerly general manager of the Smuggler-Union mine, and to have stated that he knew where the bodies of W. J. Barney and Wesley Smith, a shift boss of the Liberty Bell mine, were buried, he was brought down here by General Wells to point out the graves of the missing men. Adams evidently gave an accurate description of the place, for it is understood little difficulty was experienced in unearthing the grave. A part of the skeleton, including the teeth, was brought to town by General Wells for identification. Barney incurred the ill-will of the union here by working at the Smuggler-Union mine after the strike in April, 1901.

IS THIS THE 20th CENTURY?

(From the Overland Monthly Magazine.)

Is this the enlightened 20th Century or is it A. D. 1700? We have been watching a contest that is suggestive of the Middle Ages.

A telegram to the "Bulletin" from the "Kansas City Journal" says that prominent people in that city are recovering from Bright's Disease and Diabetes under a specific discovered in this city, and asks if the same thing is occurring here and if the results are permanent.

The "Bulletin's" reply was "Yes" to both questions.

Consider what this means! Nothing less than that Bright's Disease and Diabetes, two of the greatest scourges known, are curable. This is of profound moment to the whole world. And yet, because the formula belongs to individuals, it has been considered non-ethical and but little noticed by the medical profession, and this notwithstanding the fact that prominent people in this city, including professional and business men, have been cured to so great a number as to exclude doubt.

The editor of the "Overland Monthly" personally knows a number who have recovered. Among them is an editor; he was very low and his death was looked upon as certain. Another is an old school physician. The latter was rejected for insurance. He would not permit his ethics to stand between him and his own recovery. He can now pass. One would have thought that this case would have attracted attention. But the only comment he reported was an arraignment by a brother physician for using a non-ethical preparation.

We recall that Paracelsus' discovery of the use of mercury was derided for forty years, and vaccination was fought nearly as long. And yet, what physician does not know both?

And history seems to be repeating itself, for it has for several years been known to some hundreds, probably thousands, in this city that Bright's Disease and Diabetes are no longer in the list of incurable diseases. And yet the world does not know it. Editors, lawyers, manufacturers and business men have discussed it openly, but physicians have breathed but softly of it, although scores have seen patients that demanded the new specific recover.

And what is it that is holding all this back? Ethics!

At the rate the deaths from Bright's Disease are increasing under the most skillful orthodox treatment, according to government and municipal reports, if Paracelsus' forty years' experience is to be repeated, somebody is shouldering an awful responsibility, for what is happening to the patients in these long interminable while the antagonisms of the medical schools are adjusting themselves to new conditions?

Multiplying monuments will mutely answer.

It may be that in this age of books and newspapers the people will willingly continue to die of Bright's Disease and Diabetes because it is orthodox rather than recover and face the charge that they are not ethical. But we doubt it. We can as easily believe in the sanity of the prospector dying of thirst in the desert rather than accept water from a newly discovered spring because not on his chart.

Future history will record this decade as marking the first definite control of chronic Bright's Disease and Diabetes, and the name of the obscure but lamented Fulton will be as indissolubly connected with it as is Harvey's with the circulation of the blood. That is clear enough, but how many tens of thousands will be sacrificed to an antiquated orthodoxy before the mountains of opposition and prejudice have been melted by the march of progress, the sun of tolerance and the needs of humanity—Overland Monthly.

The above article refers to the astounding recoveries now being made by the Fulton treatment for urgent cases here. We will see that people with Bright's Disease, Diabetes or serious kidney disease are sent literature on this important discovery.

Represented in Barre by Rickert & Wells of the Red Cross Pharmacy.

WHITNEY STARTS ROW OVER SOILS.

Theory That His New Fertilizer Will Change Science Called Heresy.

Berkley, Cal., Aug. 9.—A declaration by Prof. Milton Whitney, chief of the bureau of soils in the United States department of agriculture, that he has discovered a new soil fertilization which may necessitate a complete revision of the science of chemistry of soils, has stirred up a pretty row between experts. Prof. Whitney claims the growth of plants does not exhaust the soil. This, according to orthodox scientists of Dr. Hildard's school, is heresy. Dr. Hildard, former dean and chief of the United States agricultural department station at Berkley, said yesterday:

"This theory, which Prof. Whitney seems to think is new, was advanced, discussed and exploded 100 years ago."

ROBBED TO HELP SICK WIFE; KILLED.

Arrested With Goods, Tries to Escape and Policeman Shoots Him.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 9.—Patrolman Stevenson shot and killed Edward Pearce, aged 33, early yesterday. Pearce had a bag on his shoulder filled with material so heavy that he staggered under the weight. The policeman stopped the man, and, after failing to receive any satisfactory explanation as to where he got the goods, placed him under arrest.

The prisoner gave a quick twist and darted away. Stevenson fired three shots into the air, but the man ran on. Stevenson then took steady aim and fired a fourth time. The bullet went straight to the mark, entering the left side of the fugitive's body and penetrating the heart.

A few minutes after the shooting, the police were notified that a store had been robbed of brass material. It was brass couplings, cocks and spigots that Pearce carried in the bag.

Pearce was a son of a farmer near Wilmington, Del. He came here to work two weeks ago. As his wife and child needed medical attendance, it is believed that he adopted burglary to raise money for their needs.

FURTHER DECLINE IN STOCKS.

Big Stocks Dumped on The Market, But Flood is Checked.

New York, Aug. 9.—Sharp declines and heavy offerings of prominent stocks continued yesterday in the slump which has prevailed since the big Standard Oil line was announced. The market showed a marked tone of uneasiness from the opening. Oil trust men, it was said, were content to let things take their course and not come to the support of the market.

COUPLE ACCUSED OF MURDER OF WOMAN.

Body Found at Marseilles Is Positively Identified.

Monte Carlo, Aug. 9.—The finding of the dismembered body of a woman at Marseilles Aug. 6 in the baggage of two travellers, who were first referred to as Mr. and Mrs. Gould, but who have been identified as persons who were known here as "Sir Vere and Lady Gould," has created a sensation here, where the parties were regarded as people of leisure and respectability.

The police say an investigation indicates that the woman, whose name has now been definitely established as Emma Levin, was murdered by the Goulds. Jewels believed to have belonged to the victim were found in the female prisoner's hand satchel. A commission has been despatched to England to investigate the antecedents of the Goulds.

The male prisoner passed as an Irish baronet of Montreal, where his wife, who was a Miss Giardun, earned her living as a dressmaker some twenty-five years ago.

ONE DEAD AND FOUR DYING FROM EATING TOADSTOOLS.

Fatal Error of Physician Who Went in Search of Mushrooms.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 9.—One person is dead and four are dying as the result of a family party eating toadstools in mistake for mushrooms at Deep Valley, a village thirty-five miles southwest of here. The victims are: Dead: Dr. C. P. Dismore.

Dying: Thomas Dismore, his son; Sarah Dismore, a niece; Mrs. Jennie Dismore, a sister-in-law; Frank Roberts, a farm-hand.

Dr. Dismore on Sunday gathered what he thought were mushrooms and the family partook heartily of them. They became sick shortly afterward. The doctor died this morning. The others are unconscious and may not survive the day.

FAIR INEZ.

Oh, have you saw sweet Inez? She's went into the East To splash around in salty waves And break six hearts at least, She took her best clo's with her, Our troubles are increased, And we must hit the quick-lunch joints While she can blithely feast.

Go, how we miss fair Inez While she is far away! The chief clerk has a solemn look— He used to be so gay.

The boss is grumpy, and I heard Him swearin' yesterday Because there wasn't no one here Knew how to spell sashay.

Come back, come back, sweet Inez, To hammer on the keys; It seemed like music when you made Your O's and I's and E's.

Come back and bring
